Jackson.—Big efforts to secure the location for the Amador county high school is being made for this city.

San Jose.—Joe Aguila was sentenced by Judge Richards to life imprisonment in Folsom for the murder of Maria Cervantes, with whom he had been living near Gilroy.

San Jose.—A south-bound train on the Southern Pacific ran over and killed George Elliott, son of a laundryman at Gilroy. The boy was driving a wagon when it was struck by a train.

San Jose.—An untiring vigil of several nights ended when George McCracken, a rancher in Stone avenue, captured two chicken thieves only to have one of them turn on him with a revolver.

Richmond.—The number of saloons in this city will be curtailed, according to a vote of the Council at its regular meeting. According to the charter there can be but 50 saloons in the city, but according to the ordinance just passed in the future the limit is set at 25.

Willows.—John Hannan, aged inmate of the Glenn county hospital, was run down and killed by the Shasta limited on the Southern Pacific. The accident occurred about half a mile north of the city while Hannan was on his way to the hospital. He was 80 years old and apparently did not hear the engine's whistle.

Los Angeles.—C. F. Reynolds, a rancher 58 years old, went to Lankershim and gave himself up to the constable after having informed him that he had shot and killed his wife. According to Reynolds' statement the two quarreled frequently, and he says she attacked him last night with a knife, whereupon he shot her.

Oakland.—The bartender at the Station House was horrified to see blood dripping through the ceiling into the barroom. He traced the blood to the room of John Rogers, a guest. Rogers had cut his throat and wrist with a knife and was in a serious condition. He was removed to the receiving hospital. No money was found on him, but several cards of the Whosever Will mission were found in his pocket. A letter showed that he was from Detroit, Mich.

Carson, Nev.—Masses of broken ice, driven by a high wind against the Hobart creek reservoir dam, belonging to the Virginia City water works, crushed the dam, the resultant flood carrying away the house in which Keeper Jones and his wife and a Mrs. Campbell, were asleep. Jones was found in an unconscious condition in a pile of debris down the creek. He was revived, but is in a precarious condition. The bodies of the women have not been found.

San Francisco.—Mrs. Gertrude Malalepin, mother of two children, is dead and five families are homeless as the result of a fire. Mrs. Malalepin had gone to a small grocery store to make some purchases. She was just leaving the store when the fire broke out. Terrorized by the flames, she was hurrying home to her two children when a sputtering electric wire fell across her path. She reached for the wire to throw it from her. The current passed through her body, burning her right hand and arm to a crisp. She died crying feebly to the bystanders to "save her babies from the fire."

Hanford.—Recognizing the occupant of a runaway rig dashing down the main business street as his own daughter, G. L. Thompson, a local fruit grower, ran out and sprang for the horse's head, but was knocked down and fatally injured. The girl retained enough presence of mind to guide the runaway past the other vehicles in the street, finally bringing it to a standstill, uninjured. Thompson, who had been hurled so violently to the pavement that his skull was fractured and several ribs broken, was given prompt surgical attention, but died without regaining consciousness. He leaves a widow and five children.

PRESIDENT TAFT ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR RELIEF Army Transport Soon to Leave Pacific Coast With Supplies for China.

Washington.—President Taft issued the following proclamation calling for funds to aid the famine sufferers in China:

"As president of the American Red Cross I appeal to the people of this country to aid the unfortunate multitudes who are dying of starvation because of famine in China, either by money contributions, which should be sent to the local Red Cross treasurers or to the Red Cross, Washington, D. C., or by assisting in raising a cargo of flour and other valuable supplies to be sent to these people.

"Congress has granted the use of an army transport to the Red Cross for this purpose. Seattle Commercial Club of Seattle, Wash., is co-operating with the Red Cross and will act as receiving and forwarding agent for all supplies. I trust that our people will respond generously and that the transportation lines will aid in the delivery at Seattle. WILLIAM H. TAFT."

An army transport and an appropriation of $50,000 for its expenses are to be made immediately available to carry relief from Seattle to the famine sufferers of China. The House agreed to a conference report on a bill making the appropriation.

Bad Fire in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles.—Fire in the heart of the retail district and within a stone's throw of the City Hall caused losses estimated at $250,000. W. E. Gould, fireman, was badly cut with flying glass. Irwin Gates, 18, riding a motorcycle, was run down and injured by a fire engine responding to the alarm. The fire, which for hours threatened to wipe out the block bounded by Broadway, Hill, Second and Third streets, had its origin in the northwest corner of Third and Broadway, destroying the Byrne office building and several retail stores.

Dove 1000 Feet Into River.

New York.—Charles F. Morek, a professional, though comparatively inexperienced, aviator, was forced to dive into the Hudson river with an aeroplane while trying to fly from a point near the New Jersey palisades to Central Park on Manhattan island. He narrowly escaped with his life. The motor stopped when Morek was nearly 1000 feet above the river and about 100 yards from the Jersey shore.

Killed by Fall Into Creek.

Petaluma.—A peculiar accident, which resulted in his death, befell H. P. Matthison, a prominent rancher, while on his way home last Saturday night, after a business trip to Petaluma. Matthison left Petaluma after dark and was crossing a small bridge in Wilson district when one of the wheels struck the railing. The jar evidently unseated Matthison and he plunged headlong into the creek.

Murder in Porterville.

Porterville.—J. B. Lamkin, a prominent merchant, was murdered in his store by an unknown Mexican, whose object is believed to have been robbery. The Mexican escaped, and a fire alarm was turned in, arousing the entire town. Immediately a posse of a hundred citizens began scouring the country for the murderer.

Killed Himself Accidentally.

Fruitvale.—Peter Hoyer, an electrician, shot himself in the left breast, accidentally, it is believed, with a Winchester repeating shotgun in the rear of his shop at 2217 Fruitvale avenue. The heavy charge tore a big hole in his breast, penetrating the heart and death was instantaneous.

Carnegie Branch Libraries.

Los Angeles.—The City Council voted 7 to 1 to accept the offer of Andrew Carnegie to give $210,000 for the erection of six branch libraries in this city and to provide the $21,000 annual appropriation for the maintenance of the libraries, upon which condition Mr. Carnegie's offer was made.

More Oaks in Oakland.

Oakland.—The Board of Public Works accepted the plans of Oscar Prager, City Landscape Gardener, for beautifying the city streets by planting trees along most of the thoroughfares, and authorized him to go ahead with the work.

Neither Die Than Wait.

Udall, Kan.—Because by the terms of her father's will if she married before she was 25 years old she would lose her share of his $50,000 estate, Katherine Haines, 18, committed suicide.

Solons at Sacramento Pass On Numerous Bills

Sacramento.—In view of the fact that the Supreme Court has held that an unloaded weapon pointed in a person's face is not an assault with a deadly weapon, the Assembly passed Harlan's bill making an empty weapon equally dangerous under the law.

A debtor owing less than $10 can feel assured of his wages not being attached, according to the bill passed setting the minimum amount.

The House passed McDonald's bill prohibiting telephone companies from placing saloons and resorts on the same party lines with homes.

Assemblyman Gayler's bill protecting beavers with a continual closed season passed.

The Gates constitutional amendment providing for the initiative and referendum as advocated by Governor Johnson in his inaugural address was unanimously adopted by the Assembly and will be submitted to the people at the next general election.

Manual training, agriculture and horticulture may be taught in the High Schools of the State by the provisions of a bill passed by the Senate, and athletic and military drill made a part of the course of study. In addition, the measure, of which Senator Larkins is the author, contains the provision that county boards shall meet annually and agree upon a course of study, and that the text books selected for the courses must be used for at least four years.

Instead of having power only to send drug fiends to jail for short sentences, judges may, according to a bill passed by the Senate, commit them to the State hospitals, to be kept there until cured. Senator Finn fathered the bill.

Senator Strobbridge's bill, which requires all dealers in fish and game to take out a license and file it with the Fish and Game Commissioners, so as to keep a check on the sale of fish and game, was passed.

Both houses of the Legislature have passed a law making it a misdemeanor for furniture dealers to sell upholstered furniture without clearly labeling the articles with a description of their true inward character.

Among the bills passed by the Senate were the following:

Allowing unchartered cities to levy taxes for music in parks—Gates.

Providing that election returns may be forwarded by express—Bell.

Providing for escheat to county treasuries of unclaimed funds, receiverships of banks—Stetson.

Making it a felony to smuggle arms or drugs into county jails—Finn.

Providing that in counties having 20 or more school districts teachers' institutes may be divided into six or more day or night sessions, for the benefit of the public—Roseberry.

Providing that the salaries of deputy school superintendents shall not be less than the salary paid to any principal in the city or county—Finn.

For the cancellation of erroneous assessments—Thompson.

Declaring the Sonora and Mono road in Tuolumne county a State highway—Curtin.

In Fifty-Mile Race Sheriff Succeeds Over Lynchers

Visalia.—Winning a 50-mile automobile race with would-be lynchers, Sheriff Collins took in custody and safely landed in jail here Juan Maganya, believed to have murdered J. B. Lamkin at Porterville. Maganya was captured at Chico Flat, 20 miles from Porterville. A fire alarm had summoned a mass meeting of 400 citizens, and all the stores in town were closed that the entire population might take part in the hunt. Maganya was tracked by one of the posses, and the Sheriff and Porterville citizens were notified simultaneously by telephone of the capture. A race ensued between Collins in his auto and about fifty machines bearing citizens from Porterville.

The Sheriff had just got his man and turned back toward Visalia when the Porterville people arrived, shouting "Lynch him!"

Collins reached Porterville on his way to Visalia just ahead of the pursuers. Delayed by a train at a crossing, he was forced to swear in 50 deputies to protect the prisoner from a mob of people who collected about the auto. Near Lindsey the Sheriff's machine plunged off a bridge, exploded and burned, the Sheriff being injured. The prisoner did not try to escape. Another automobile was secured at Tulare. When taken Maganya said, "I guess I am the man you want."

President Taft Has Affixed His Signature to Fair Bill

Washington.—With a gold pen made of metal mined in California and in the presence of the United States Senators and a number of Representatives from that State, the President attached his signature to the engrossed bill designating San Francisco as the City in which will be held in 1915 an exposition signaling the opening of the Panama canal. Mr. Taft presented the pen to one of the members of the party, and it will be placed on exhibition at the exposition. President Taft was in his happiest mood. He told his visitors that the success of the Panama-Pacific fair will now be a responsibility resting weightily upon them.

He hoped for an exposition to which the nation may point with pride and feel that the country will enjoy a new prestige before the world. Briefly but forcefully Taft put it up to the San Franciscans to make good.

The resolution was signed in duplicate, one copy for the archives and the other for the city of San Francisco.

San Francisco now has full commission to proceed, and with the adjustment of questions concerning the expenditure of the $17,500,000 now before the California Legislature there is nothing to deter the committees from organizing and getting into immediate action.

Law on Betting Puts Quiet on Horse Racing Game

San Francisco.—Horse racing as conducted on the Emeryville track and many other tracks in California is now a thing of the past. This is made true by the Walker-Young law, which went into effect last Thursday. This law no more interferes with the running of horses than it prohibits the running of water.

What the Walker-Young law will do is to prohibit, under penalty of a jail sentence, betting or wagering upon the "result or purported result of any trial, or purported trial, or contest, or purported contest, of skill, speed or power of endurance of man or beast, or between men, beasts or mechanical apparatus, or upon the result or purported result of any lot, chance, casualty, unknown or contingent event whatsoever."

That means there can be no more betting on horse races, oral or written, and the scope of the law is so extensive that the owners or lessees of property on which betting is done are equally culpable with the bettors.

No Statehood for Arizona.

Washington.—After a conference with President Taft at the White House Delegate Ralph Cameron of Arizona said that the territory could not become a State until after the convening of the next Congress. He said that the vote of the people of Arizona on the organic act could not be certified and filed here before March 5.

City to Be Heated by Steam.

Oakland.—Within 20 days the Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Company will begin installing pipes for the steam heating system which is to be established in the business section of the city. This new departure will result in the expenditure of more than $100,000 and the employment of a large number of men.

YOUTH SHOULD BE TOLERANT Must Practise Self-Denial and Pay to Old Age the Attention So Welcome to It.

Young people are happier together, without the constraint of elderly company, still they should not openly avoid that company, or make their elders feel out in the cold.

There is a certain type of girl to whom an elderly person is always a tramp or foggy, an object of ridicule, and to be avoided or ignored as much as possible. Self-denial is necessary to make youth tolerant of age, but the attentions of youth are so welcome to the elder that this is a virtue which may be said to bring its own reward.

The young girl should listen patiently to the old man's story, though it may possibly be a little prosy, and she should be ready to play or sing or do anything in her power, with sweet willingness, immediately when asked.

She does not realize how wonderful and beautiful it seems to her elders that here is a bright being with the world at her feet and all the pleasant years before her. A glad heart and a bright young face mean much in a gathering of people where there are sure to be some heavy hearts, some sorrow-lined countenances.

The young men always gravitate toward the pretty girls, yet it is a question whether their admiration of them is more spontaneous and more sincere than that of the older ones, who look wistfully at them, recalling happy days that are no more, and humming under the breath some such song as "O, Don't You Remember Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt?"

Signs of Rain.

The following natural weather signs are given in an old book—the croaking of frogs in the morning indicates fine weather. If frogs croak more than usual, if toads issue from their holes in the evening in great numbers, if the earthworms come out of the earth, if the moles throw up more earth than usual, if the cows look toward the heavens and turn up their nostrils as if catching some smell, if the oxen lick their fore feet, if the dogs lie on their right sides—all these are signs which announce rain.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—MRS. NATHAN B. GREATER, 61 N. KNEW LITTLE OF COMFORT

Old English Houses Designed Simply for Protection Against Inclement Weather.

The habitations of English common people for centuries consisted of a wooden hut of one room, with the fire built in the center. To this hut, if a man increased in family and wealth, a lean-to was added and later another and another. The roofs were of thatch, the beds of loose straw, or straw beds with bolsters of the same, laid on the floor, or perhaps eventually shut in by a shelf and ledge like the berths of a ship or by a small closet.

The Saxon thane or "knight" built a more pretentious "hall," a large open room like the Roman atrium with a lofty roof thatched or covered with slates or wooden shingles. In the center of the hard clay floor burned great fires of dry wood whose thin acrid smoke escaped from openings in the roof, above the hearth or by the doors, windows and openings under the eaves of the thatch.

By day the "hearts-men" and visitors, when not working or fighting, sat on long benches on either side of the fire, and, as John Hay puts it, "calmly drinking and jawed;" or gathering at long "boards" placed on trestles regarded themselves on some sort of porridge with "fish and milk," or "meat and ale."

At night, straw or rushes spread on the floor formed beds for the entire company in the earlier and ruder days, when the "baser sort" were glad to share their straw with the cows.— Charles Winslow Hall, in National Magazine.

"Lone Tree."

In the early days of Merrick county, during the '50s, there stood on the north bank of the Platte river south of what is now Central City a giant cottonwood tree. This tree was close to the old Oregon trail, and for miles up and down the river there was not another tree to be found. Under its spreading branches emigrant trains halted for rest to escape the heat of the day under its beneficent shade. It came to be known to the early travelers of the plain as the Lone Tree.

Finally its branches withered and its trunk rotted and the old tree fell down, and the spot where it stood was almost forgotten. A short time ago a move was set on foot by the old settlers to set up some suitable mark on the spot where the Lone Tree stood, and the matter has been taken before the county board of supervisors.
A marble shaft will be set up. On the shaft will be the simple words, "Here stood the old Lone Tree on the Oregon trail."—Omaha World-Herald.

The Two Dramatists.

Thompson Buchanan, the brilliant young dramatist, was praising the dramatic critics of New York.
"If these men err," said Mr. Buchanan, "it is on the side of generosity and forbearance. Set dramatists to criticising one another, and there would be a different tale to tell."

"For dramatists are cruel critics. Two dramatists once sat opposite each other at a Christmas dinner. A waiter, in filling a glass with champagne, joggled against the older man's ear. He growled:

"Be careful there, waiter. Remember, please, I've got a head on my shoulders."
"But the younger dramatist said, with a nasty laugh, across the table:
"A head? Rubbish! You've only got a pimple on your shoulders that will never come to a head."

Evils of Modern Fiction.

The fiction hero of the day is said to be weak and unheroic, and the charge is made that the women are the cause. "There is no doubt," said a literary agent recently, "that heroes of a wide class of writers are decadent and unheroic. They do nothing worth doing. They are weak and almost effeminate, and lack strength of character. This is not the author's fault. It seems to be the natural sequence of the conception of the up-to-date heroine, for it is impossible to imagine any decent, old-time hero putting up with the modern heroine. The authors, too, seem to think that they get strength into their stories by dealing with what is repellant. There is no doubt that there is much that is morbid in the predominating type of fiction heroes."

Danced on Husband's Grave.

When Erwin S. Moore, the insurance man, saw a woman, evidently in a high state of excitement, go rushing into a cemetery the other day, he followed, intuitively thinking he might be the agency in averting a tragedy, according to the Cleveland Leader.
"But there was no actual tragedy," says Mr. Moore in telling of his experience. "The woman marched over, to a newly-made grave, in which—as I afterward learned—her late husband had recently been laid to rest—hopped up and down on the freshly-turned earth two or three times and then, turning to me, shouted with all her strength: "At last I've got him where I want him!"

LEARN HABITS OF THRIFT

Three Hundred Children, Who Attend Philadelphia Mission, Save Collectively $6,000.

Taught habits of thrift at St. Martha's mission, Eighth street and Synder avenue, the children who attend the mission, about 300 in number, have saved, collectively $6,000 in the last few years.

This statement was made by Dea-coness Colesbury in an address in the church house, Twelfth and Walnut streets, to social workers. The speaker told of the personal and human side of settlement work and described the work of the mission in its efforts to bring about "neighborhood improvement."

One of the first things taught the children of the neighborhood was to be thrifty. Deaconess Colesbury told of one little fellow, less than ten years old, who had profited by the lesson.
He told proudly of the sum he had saved from the pennies given to him, and when asked to tell why he saved, said:

"Well, some day I might grow up and then I might get married and then some day I might be out of work."

The mission has done other things for the children of the neighborhood, too, and has a splendid record for its nine years of existence at its present location. A substitution of the free public library has been opened there, a dispensary has been provided and there are two playgrounds, where 300 children played every day last summer. Then there are clubs for the children and a mothers' club for the mothers.—Philadelphia North Ameri-

Woman Given Some Advice.

A drunken man embarked on a downtown car at a cross street, and, with a great show of gravity, made his way down the aisle, taking the only vacant seat, the other half of which was occupied by a woman wearing a hat with an unusually wide brim.
Every time the car lurched the woman's head "bobbed" and the sharp rim of the hat raked her fellow passenger across the cheek. Several times his hand sought his face in protection, but finally, becoming nettled, he pushed off the hat rim with considerable vigor.

"Sir!" exclaimed the indignant woman.

"Madam," retorted he, with portentous anger, "what you need is a whole section, and not a half seat in a street car."

The passengers tittered and the woman subsided, and after that kept her hat out of range.

Dudley Moulton for Horticultural Commission

There is now a great deal being said in the papers concerning the conduct of the State Horticultural Commission, and many articles have been written criticising the present Commissioner. There is a general desire that the appointment of the next Commissioner be based upon merit instead of political preferment.

For this position Mr. Dudley Moulton, one of our townsmen, has been prominently mentioned. In fact we are told that entirely independent of any solicitation on his part, a strong movement has taken shape throughout the entire State for his appointment. This is a flattering recognition of his ability.

Mr. Moulton is a man in every way fitted for the position. He has risen rapidly. First, he was county commissioner of this county. Then when the Government Station was established in San Jose, the Secretary of Agriculture selected him to take charge of all the Government work in this State. His investigations in the thrips and his successful conduct of the Government work won for him recognition that secured his appointment to his present position at the head of the State Quarantine Work. In his present position he has charge of inspecting all foreign nursery stock fruits coming into San Francisco. In this position he has done valuable service in protecting the horticultural interests in the State. He combines a scientific college training with the practical knowledge gained from being raised on a ranch.

The movement for his appointment is based on the desire to get the most competent man available. In the past the office has been regarded as a political asset, providing positions for family or political friends. This idea of public office went out when the present Administration came in. Too much depends on this office to permit the appointment to be made on any other lines than fitness.

We know that with Mr. Moulton as Commissioner the office will be given a scientific standing. We are hopeful that he will be appointed.

The seventeenth annual Old Settlers' Day celebration is now a matter of history. We cannot say how it compared with former events, but we can most emphatically state that it was a glorious success in every way. The weather was ideal, and the splendid program showed good judgment and hard work on the part of all the committees. The immense wareroom of the Ainsley Packing Co. was filled with people from all over the valley. The band and the orchestra did their share toward putting life into the occasion. The Girls' glee club showed excellent training under the direction of Professor Lawrence. The singing of the Lyric Quartet was a rare treat in itself.

Mr. S. R. Wade, as chairman of the day, made a fine little speech at the beginning of the program. Professor Edward B. Krehbiel delivered a strong address on "America's Second Opportunity," the opportunity of leading the world in the great "Peace Movement." His clear voice was heard in all parts of the large building and his manner of handling the subject made it deeply interesting to everybody.

The basket lunch at noon was more like a Fourth of July picnic.
The afternoon program was both literary and musical. The principal speech was by Hon. P. F. Gosbey, and dealt with the early history of the valley. Jos. Bohnett made the closing address, and in his own humorous way told various amusing incidents of local history.

Rev. E. S. Williams of Saratoga made a very enthusiastic announcement of the Blossom Festival to be held soon in the foothills.

Sing Kee will lose his reputation as a weather prophet if he don't do better. Last Friday morning he called up the Mercury and said:
"Ello, Mellacy? How dee do? Hip col? Some mo' col' tomolla.
Lots flost in a maw'nin'. No lain disce wick. Lain rix'-a Wednesday.
Thesseday. Pitty goo'. Goo' by." Possibly he saw last week's Press and changed his plans for rain this week on account of our celebration here. Thanks, Sing Kee.

In his address Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Bohnett suggested that we honor the birthdays of our old settlers while they are still alive and among us, and not wait until they are gone. A good suggestion.

CAMPBELL

(The Orchard City)

Lies fifty miles south of San Francisco, on the Santa Cruz division of the Southern Pacific Railway, and is the central point of the most fruitful, diversified and scenic section of the famous Santa Clara Valley. Superb electric service places it within but a few minutes' ride of San Jose, the metropolis of the valley. Los Gatos, the Gem City of the foothills, and Saratoga, with its ideal mountain retreats and its famous Congress Springs, nestling in the hills whose waters are unexcelled. As you ride through the thousands of orchard, homes, and enter into the picturesque canyons of the foothills of the evergreen Santa Cruz Mountains, you can but exclaim: "This is indeed a Garden Spot!"

Scenery Superb

With the Santa Cruz Mountains to the west and south, and the Mt. Hamilton Range to the east, a majestic amphitheatre is formed, the beauty of which can not be exceeded anywhere.
Campbell has an altitude of 195 feet. The cool ocean breezes from San Francisco Bay at the north insure an even and comfortable temperature throughout the summer months, while the flowers are warm and pleasant. Flowers bloom out of doors the year around. The miles of pink and white fruit blossoms that appear in the spring is a sight that will long linger in the memory.

Fine Roads and Resorts

The Santa Clara Valley boasts of the finest roads to be found in the State. It has over 400 miles of spunked rural highways. In attractions for tourists, the Santa Clara Valley has few equals. Thirty-two miles eastward over a majestic mountain road is the famous Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton, 4,444 feet above sea level. There are numerous mountain retreats within two hours' drive for those who love the camp and the sparkling brook. The sea beach lies to the southward 27 miles by rail or carriage road, through some of the most beautiful mountain scenery in the world. A trip to the Big Trees, 20 feet in diameter and 2,000 years old, will furnish a delightful day's outing.

Educational Advantages

Campbell has a population of about 700. It maintains a third-class postoffice, which distributes mail to 3,000 patrons, the three rural routes covering over 30 square miles of orchard homes. There are two churches—Methodist and Congregational—a first-class High School and Graded School, and within a few miles are two Universities, two Colleges, a State Normal School, and several Business Colleges and private schools. Stanford University is only 20 miles away.

No Saloons
Campbell has a complete water system of its own. It has electric lights and power for mechanical purposes, which is distributed throughout the orchard district. A telephone exchange furnishes free communication with the larger part of the county. A prohibitory clause in all deeds to property within the town limits, prevents the saloon from being established.

Business Interests
Campbell has large fruit packing and drying establishments, one of the best equipped can-neries on the coast, (catering to the highest class of export trade), a lumber yard and planing mill, and well-stocked stores. It also has a weekly newspaper and a modern job printing plant. The Bank of Campbell, with commu-cial and savings deposits amounting to more than a quarter of a million dollars, is a fair indication of the prosperity of the community.
Here is a large and profitable field for industrial development.

Fruit Center
Campbell is pre-eminently a fruit center, and offers unusual opportunities for profitable investment, whether it be a large commercial orchard, a chicken ranch, or a small orchard home. The Campbell orchard district is noted for the quality of its fruit. For delicacy of flavor, beauty and perfection of color, its cherries, apricots, peaches, apples, plums, grapes, and pears have no equal in their fresh state, and command the highest market price. As cured or dried fruit, the Campbell prunes, apples and peaches are shipped to every civilized country on the globe. Nearly one-third of all the prunes grown on the continent are from Campbell orchards. 2,000,000 cans of fresh fruits are packed in Campbell every year.

Land Values Moderate

Land values are very moderate—bare land brings from $100 to $400 per acre, and when set to trees sells from $300 to $1,000 an acre, according to the location and age of the orchard.
In short, Campbell is neither urban nor suburban, but is in fact as well as in name, an Orchard City—a city of orchard homes, with all the conveniences necessary for twentieth century comfort.

PROPERTIES OF ICE.

Why Skating is Easier When the Temperature is Not Too Low.

Why can we skate more easily when the weather is not too cold?
Why do our skates "bite" or take hold of the ice better when the temperature is not far below the freezing point? The explanation of this simple and universally recognized fact will enable us also to see the reason for another, the truth of which is recognized by every schoolboy—namely, that snow will pack better into snowballs when nearly at its melting point.

The explanation of both these facts lies in an almost unique property of water or, rather, ice, which causes it to melt or tend to melt when pressure is applied to it. When the pressure is relieved, if it is still below its normal freezing temperature, it at once solidifies again.

This property is beautifully illustrated in a familiar experiment in which a large cake of ice is used, supported at each end. If a loop of fine wire is passed around it and a weight attached to the end it will soon be noted that the wire is slowly cutting its way through the ice, but curiously enough without causing any division of the cake, for the ice is melted into water by the pressure directly beneath the wire, which water at once freezes into ice again above the wire, so that perhaps after an hour's time the wire will have cut its way completely through the cake, leaving it, however, as solid and whole as ever.

In the case of the skater, then, the weight of his body carried on a narrow skate may produce a pressure on the ice sufficiently great to melt a small groove under the edge of the runner. This enables it to take hold of the ice more readily, and, furthermore, the water acts as a lubricant on the ice and makes it slippery. Since considerable pressure is necessary to produce melting even when the temperature is only a degree or so below the normal melting point, this effect will not take place on a very cold day, for, as is well known, very cold ice is not slippery. The same explanation holds for snowballs. But the pressure developed in this case is much less, so that melting enough to "pack" well will not occur unless the snow is nearly warm enough to melt anyway.

This effect is noted on a grand scale in the case of glaciers, which flow slowly down a mountain side much as if ice was a viscous fluid.
The great pressure developed along the bottom as well as at the turns and other points causes a slight melting, which is immediately followed by freezing again as soon as the pressure is relieved. This enables the ice to adapt itself to the shape of the valley as it proceeds on its way.

Ice is one of the few substances that show this effect of melting under pressure, and it does so because of the fact that water expands on freezing. The great majority of substances contract on solidifying and hence would show the reverse effect—that is, pressure applied to them in the molten state would tend to cause solidification.

This is one reason for believing that the interior of our earth as a whole is solid rather than molten, for, while we believe that the temperature of the interior may be much more than enough to melt rock under ordinary conditions—and indeed volcanoes show that there is plenty of molten rock not so very far below the surface—the enormous pressures that exist deep down in the earth are enough to keep the material in a solid condition.—Minneapolis Journal.
